But DOJ says President has disciplinary powers over BuCor director

By Mike Dizon

JUSTICE SECRETARY Leila de Lima would have wanted Bureau of Corrections (BuCor) Director Ernesto Diokno put on preventive suspension for former Batangas Gov. Antonio Leyna's alleged abuse of his "living out" arrangement at the New Bilibid Prison (NBP).

But Diokno is an appointee of President Aquino, and he has a right to due process, de Lima said in her opinion. It was only mentioned that preventive suspension is the President, who has disciplinary powers over him (INQ). de Lima said she also had to wait for the recommendations of the fact-finding panel that she had formed to look into Leyna's "copay."

Today at 8 a.m., the panel is to begin an on-site inspection of the NBP's minimum security compound, where Leyna was supposed to be working as part of his "living out" arrangement. Leyna was sentenced in September 2009 to a 12-year prison for killing his longtime aide and friend Robert de la Cruz (INQ).

Pichay suspended over bank purchase using LWUA funds

By Leila B. Salazar, Risa T. Ochoa and Harrison Bontades

DOCG Water Utilities Administration (WUWA) Chair Pichay has been suspended for six months by the Office of the Comptroller in connection with a gross misconduct case arising in the 2010 government acquisition of a financially troubled rural bank in 2009.

Acting Undersecretary (Finance) Carlos said the suspension against Pichay was strong and would be maintained, leaving the suspension order, de la Cruz said (INQ).

Ping's RH bill to reward couples with 2 kids

By Jonathan N. Eguarte and Jonathan Aring

LIBERTY YOUTH children to two and you will be rewarded, according to a version of the reproductive health bill (RH) bill filed in the Senate.

Under the "population management" program included in Aquino's bill, couples are "encouraged" to limit the number of their children to two. In exchange, their children "shall have preference in the grant of scholarships at the senior level."

As for computer standardizing RH "conscientious," they should be enjoy "personal and corporate income tax exemptions for three years from the start of their operations," or three years from the time the business begins to operate.

BUSINESS CLIMATE REPORT Chinese mining firms skirt PH laws

By Tony S. Borgeles

CHINA has just one more thousands of hectares of mineral-rich land in the Philippines. It has been in the spotlight for its aggressive land acquisition for its mining activities, according to a report by a multinational research firm.

Pacific Strategies and Associates (PSA), a consulting-supplying foreign contractors and contractors in Manila with multiple licenses and licenses to mine, said the last few years had been a upsurge in Chinese mining activity in the Philippines.

The PSA reports, titled "Exploring Chinese Mining in the Philippines" and dated April 2011—said that as a result of the increase in Chinese mining, the Philippines is now China's leading supplier of nickel.

PDEA alarmed by drug trade in nat'l prison

By Maricel Chua
Baptist Foundation

SAN PEDRO, Laguna—Drug enforcement authorities expressed alarm over reports that illegal drug trade was thriving inside the national prison.

"There [prisoners] are already doing their line. Unfortunately, as reported, they are also making illegal drugs. It is a cause for alarm because it supplies especially our drug users in the police and police training unit," said Philippine Drug Enforcement Agency (PDEA) information officer Leticia Carmona in a phone interview Friday.

Carmona said "everybody should be informed" of the report that a drug trade could be run from inside a prison.

The illegal drug trade is said to have begun just after the killing of Bureau of Corrections Director Assistant Director Rodrigo Duterte in his own prison last month.

Prisoners and the suspected trafficker was a prisoner in the New Bilibid Prison (NBP), who was among those Duterte had ordered executed following a memorandum of the late, legal drug trade inside the facility.

On May 6, a day before the murder, PDEA agents arrested 100 prisoners guard Rodolfo Ballester, 50, in a buy-bust operation in Calabar, Quezon City, Manila, with one prisoner, Rodolfo Ong, back from Japan, earlier, were reported caught with 100 grams of shabu (methamphetamine hydrochloride) worth P2.1 million.

On May 11, PDEA agents arrested suspected drug pusher Albert Sarmiento in Baguio City. Sarmiento admitted the source of the illegal drug trade was from the NBP.

Although Carmona did not name prison officials in the suspected prison-run drug trade, he said they could be prisoners or the prison authorities themselves.

Although drug dealers against their brand to be involved would not constitute double jeopardy because it would be a separate case, "what else or greater questions could you give them when they are already in prison?" he said.

Carmona said the NBP has "full control" over the Ballester and the Department of Justice, which have jurisdiction over several prisoners the country can put against the illegal drug trade.

"Even if it is another illegal drug, PDEA cannot just step into the prison (as) we are involved with other government agencies," he said, adding that the agency would coordinate with prison authorities should their assistance be sought.

DENR wants forest rangers to carry guns

By Maricel Chua

CALABANG CITY—Following the murder of former "Giglio Boy" Melvin at the University of the Philippines in La Trinidad, environmental officials want the government to consider arming forest rangers.

Milo Tamaro, regional director of the Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) in the Calabarzon area (Pinaric, Laguna, Batangas, Masik, Quezon), said his high-time forest rangers undergo "unconventional law enforcement training in preparation for arming them."

"We believe in the creation of a law enforcement force within the DENR given the big volume of environmental law enforcement," he said.

Tamaro said this has become more urgent since President Aquino ordered a total logging ban. He pointed out that wildlife conservation with law enforcement jurisdiction. The DENR does not have its own law enforcement units.

Tamaro said this proposal is an initiative during the launch of the National Greening Program (NGP) for Calabarzon, part of the national campaign to plant 1.2 billion trees in 1.2 billion hectares in the next five years.

Deputy House Speaker and Quezon 4th district Rep. Eric Sarmiento said the program for forest rangers support Tamaro's proposal to arm the rangers.

Tamaro, who was the guest speaker at the NGP launch, authored House Resolution 1256 calling for a full investigation into the death of former Melvin and other environmental workers.

Melvin was shot and killed in Baguio, Laguna, on May 19, three years after being guard member of the DENR Calabarzon area. He was shot while monitoring a checkpoint in the Ballester area, where Melvin was.

In May 2010, the DENR reported that three employees killed in the last of the day after guard Ballester, from Baguio to Laguna, and an environmental officer in Laguna.

WEEA has been arrested from carrying the visit of the Chinese defense minister who is arriving today for a five-day visit and that someone between the Philippines and China over the disputed Spratly Islands.

China's Defense Minister Gen. Liang Guanglie will be in the Philippines from May 21 to 26, having previously visited Singapore and Indonesia as part of the Southeast Asian tour.

Li will call on President Aquino and hold talks with his top defense and foreign policy officials, the Chinese embassy said in a statement.

"The visit is expected to further advance China-Philippines friendly relations, especially military exchanges and progress cooperation," it said.

The Department of National Defense (DND) announced Friday that Liang would call on Aquino and Armed Forces of the Philippines (AFP) Chief of Staff Gen. Eduardo Dato Jr. at the DND office in Camp Aguinaldo on Monday.

Li will also visit the media afterwards, according to the DND.

Defense Undersecretary and spokesman Eduardo Bano said "military cooperation" would be improved during the Chinese defense minister's visit.

No press con

Only the arrival honor for the Chinese general will be open to the press.

A press meeting (news conference) officials will be held in the DND, Bano said, but immediately after the arrival ceremony, the DND announced.

"There will be no press conference by either or both sides," it stressed.

The DND said Bano would only make a "short statement" immediately after the arrival ceremony.

In line of the usual press media, since the DND and the Chinese Embassy are expected to have a statement, including photos and short video, after the media afterwards.

The Chinese defense minister's visit came in the heels of news reports that suspected Chinese oil riggers landed near Philippine law enforcement police last Thursday in the vicinity of the Kalayaan Islands Group in the Spratly chain of islands south of South China Sea.

The reports, quoting unnamed military sources, said the Philippines backed off and did not confront the Chinese rig.

The AFP remained tight-lipped on Friday about the incident and a spokesman said they were still "evaluating."

On Thursday Bano said that if the reports are verified they would take it up with their counterparts through diplomatic channels, stressing that the Philippine military has no capability to detect and intercept such intrusions.

In March, the Philippines lodged a diplomatic protest after two Chinese navy personnel allegedly landed a Department of Energy oil exploration research vessel in the Reed Bank, which is within the Philippine-claimed Kalayaan Islands Group.

The Spratly chain of islands is widely or partially claimed by six countries: the Philippines, China, Vietnam, Malaysia, Brunei and Taiwan.

"Reports (are) under evaluation at this time that an unidentified aircraft flew over the country's airspace," AFP spokesman Commander Miguel Rodriguez said Friday. With a report from AFP.

Woes for Nokor vessel continue

By Cristina Arceles, Inquirer Staff Writer

LAOAG CITY—The two-month period set by authorities to salvage a grounded Korean vessel off the shores of Pagudpod since 2010 has lapsed. But the fallout left by the stranded ship keeps piling up.

The MV Nokor ship has been sitting off the shores of Bataan since for more than a year now. It sits grounded in January last year after colliding with a small boat in the waters of China.

Since then, two salvors (salvaging vessels) have come and gone.

While these salvors kept their flag through time, the village had to cope when the stranded vessel posed threats off Pagudpod and could not be salvaged.

The Nokor ship was first sighted in late March. Early in May, the vessel had sunk into the ocean.

"The vessel owner, Ben-Cito Salvage, cannot finance its poor performance as evidenced by the two oil spills it caused while conducting salvaging operations," he said.

He said the vessel must be auctioned by the Coast Guard before it could be salvaged. Pagudpod.

Based on an inventory of the salvor's operations, more than 50 percent of Ben-Cito's ship would have been salvaged.

"Depending on the salvor's reports, it should be able to complete the salvaging before the start of the typhoon season," he said.

The Coast Guard is considering the vessel as the Nokor for its oil spill.

"We are considering the flag of administration and retained compliance against the vessel and the shipowner," he said.

That of ship must taken from the vessel has become complicated since salvaging began. The vessel and the Bureau of Coast Guard has jurisdiction and must address these reports.

Stranded three months later had been salvaged. In the end, the vessel was the stranded ship when they passed a mark and could not be salvaged.

"The vessel owner is not in a position to complete the salvaging before the start of the typhoon season," he said.

THE WORLD Bank has approved a $250-million loan to support the Philippines' efforts to improve fiscal management and the investment climate as well as develop human capital so that the poor can benefit from economic opportunities.

"The approval of the Development Policy Lending (DPL) is a clear recognition by the World Bank of the country's efforts to tackle the challenges ahead of growth and poverty reduction."

Finance Secretary Carlos Dominga said in a statement. "The loan will be used to improve the country's fiscal management, budget transparency and quality of basic education and health services especially for the poor."

According to Budget Secretary Francisco B. Aldega, among the key outcome indicators that the loan will be used to improve the country's fiscal management, budget transparency and quality of basic education and health services especially for the poor.

Napocor petition seen to increase electricity rates

By Amy S. Rane

CRISIL-TRAFFIC National Power Corp. has sought to increase a staggering P27 billion from electricity consumers to prevent another round of fuel supply shortages and a collapse of electricity at its power plants in the oil-rich, oil-rich region.

Under group (Napocor), wanted to increase the amount in a year, a move that will increase the national charge for electricity distribution (NED) by 27.25 percent. A lower level, the rate firm said in a petition filed at the Energy Regulatory Commission.

Should the ERC approve the application, power consumers connected to the state grid will be forced to pay a higher US$10 of 12.12 cents a kWh from the current 4.54 cents.

Napocor has long been complaining that it needed a bigger budget as the industry expanded its nationwide distribution and the company is forced to pay the rate of electricity consumers pay for their state.

Korean firm to put up $100-M facility in Isabela

By Doreen L. Lacus

A KOREAN pulp and paper manufacturer will set up a factory in Isabela, which it will be capable of producing paper products in Isabela— a project that is expected to benefit both the local timber and agricultural sectors.

In a statement, local representatives of CNP Holdings—the overall target paper manufacturer in the project—said that the South Korean firm and its partners could be worth $100 million for the venture.

CNP will put up to factory a 100-acre property in Guigay, Isabela. The property may be expanded to 100 hectares in two years.

Initial production capacity is expected to hit 40,000 metric tons (MT) of pulp a year, adding 150,000 metric tons of wood chips from Isabela's forest.

CNP Holdings, together with the US-based Overseas Private Investment Corp. (OPIC), will be investing $40 million for the first phase of the project, and another $60 million for its second phase.

Project proposals are looking for the Isabela's environment. Overall, operations have 10 new corn byproducts, specifically corn cobs and cobs, up from the traditional pulp and paper mill, which is expected to utilize waste paper and wood chips.

According to the firm, the project is expected to generate about employment for more than 100 people and benefit thousands of corn farmers in Isabela.

To undertake the enterprise, which company called CNP Holdings Philippines Inc., will be incorporated and registered with the Philippine Securities and Exchange Commission.

The project's local partners are Filipinos on president Alfred Joseph S. Amante and Manila-based General Electric Asia Pacific.

"This investment is a step for the Philippines as the project area is on way to another Asian market," Amante said.

On the part, CNP said that this will get support of the provincial government of Isabela, specifically from President Dr. Jo. The project is also made CNP decide to locate in the Philippines.

Paper to be produced by the plant will be sold in the local and export markets.

A memorandum of understanding for cooperation between the partners will be signed on Monday by CNP chair Park Jong-Rang and Isabela Gov. Antonio Dr. Jo. of Isabela's Province.

President Aquino and Agriculture Secretary Francisco

Ad. will witness the signing.

HYPERTENSION CONTROL AND PREVENTION

Pinoy need proactive role in caring for their health

By Theresa S. Dominguez

SEVERAL BREAKTHROUGHS in the medical field have already made it possible to combat a deadly condition as hypertension.

While some countries are now making the benefits of these medical advances, the same, however, may be different in the Philippines.

In Danilo Morales, president of the Philippine Society of Hypertension, pointed out that the number of hypertension patients in the country continues to rise over the years.

"It's already an epidemic, with one out of four of the adult population having hypertension. About 28 percent of Filipinos, 30 percent in older, have this condition," Morales explained during a recent meeting in World Hypertension Day.

This new figure shows a marked increase from the 18 percent recorded in 2008, according to previous survey.

In an interview, Morales attributed this increase to the lack of necessary and adequate information about hypertension. Some cases are even left undiagnosed and untreated since the condition does not have symptoms that would warn the patient. Also, he added, some patients are unable to access proper medication due to high cost of medical fees.

"People who are often diagnosed in most hypertension cases come from the poor," Morales said.

Considered No. 1 killer

Considered as the "No. 1 killer" in the world, hypertension is a condition that multiplies the risk of heart disease, stroke and kidney failure.

While in recent years there has been a decline, there are a number of factors that can be associated with hypertension such as obesity, diet (specifically high salt intake), high intake intake of food, lack of exercise, genetic issue, age and heredity.

Pinoy, left untreated, hypertension can eventually lead to organ damage, heart failure, myocardial infarction and stroke.

This is why research-based health information is crucial. The Philippine Society of Hypertension has been working with the Department of Health, Philippine Society of Geriatrics, Philippine Society of Hypertension, Philippine Society of Nephrology and Philippine Society of Endocrinology and Metabolism since the past years for various projects that can "generate greater public awareness on the importance of preventing and controlling hypertension among the population."

Projects being implemented this month are the continuation of World Hypertension Day (celebrated a 6th year) and a new initiative, "Prevent a Stroke."

Pinoy Center on Healthy Blood Pressure and High Blood Pressure.

"We hope that this platform will help increase awareness on how to maintain optimal blood pressure and blood pressure," Morales said.

Christine F. Limson, corporate affairs and public relations officer for Health Healthcare Philippines, explained that the platform is based on the company's corporate program, which aims to address patient care and to be a collaborative care center.

Other advocacy initiatives

Addition to this platform, Morales and his partners are planning to launch other advocacy initiatives.

"We had Morales, 2010 and previous medical societies for supporting the 2010 World Hypertension Day campaign through this initiative platform," noted Health Society Executive C. Lim.

"It includes lifestyle including eating a low-fat, low-salt diet rich in vegetables and fruits, engaging in regular physical activity, maintaining optimal weight, and smoking, and limiting alcohol intake."

The year's theme for World Hypertension Day, "Share your numbers and target your blood pressure," is also highly relevant for the country, in light of the alarming number of Filipinos who have hypertension, according to Morales.

In the same meeting, he further stressed that, "It's not enough to just prevent. It's also important to have a 'preventive' role in caring for their health by going for regular blood pressure monitoring and protein blood sugar testing, particularly the individuals with a family history of hypertension."

By doing so, cases of hypertension may be prevented while allowing patients to act in a timely manner and prevent the onset of various complications.

Persons with mental troubles need family to recover

By Tina K. Salazar

PSYCHOLOGIST Cesar Calles Jr. says that people with mental troubles need family to recover.

Calles, who has been practicing psychology for over 20 years, said that the most common mental health problems are depression, anxiety, bipolar disorder, and PTSD. He said that people with mental health problems need family to recover. He said that family is the most important factor in the recovery of people with mental health problems.

HEALTHY people need to be more proactive in caring for their health, according to a new study by the American Heart Association.

A study released by the American Heart Association in early May suggested that differences in health habits can help explain why some people are more likely to develop heart disease. However, in the April 2011 issue of the journal Cardiology, researchers from the University of California, Los Angeles, found that people who don't make healthy choices for their health are more likely to die from heart disease. The study found that people who don't make healthy choices for their health are more likely to die from heart disease.

TODAY'S MEDICINE believes that sedentary lifestyle is one of the most serious threats to our health. In fact, it's the leading cause of death in the United States. And it's not just the lack of exercise that's the problem—it's the fact that many of us are not even aware of the problem.

Each day, with all of its conveniences, gives us little opportunity to be active. In many of us, the mind is so busy that the body is left behind. The result is a type of lifestyle that is not only a lack of fitness but is actually a threat to our health.

14 points to ponder for a solar home

1 Solar power reduces your carbon footprint and drives energy costs down. Solar energy is harvested through photovoltaic cells, which produce electricity from sunlight. This process is clean and renewable, making it an ideal choice for a sustainable home.

2 Solar power is ideal for areas with high energy demand. Solar panels can be installed on a variety of surfaces, including roofs, walls, and even windows. This allows you to maximize the use of your space and reduce the need for additional energy sources.

Each day, with all of its conveniences, gives us little opportunity to be active. In many of us, the mind is so busy that the body is left behind. The result is a type of lifestyle that is not only a lack of fitness but is actually a threat to our health.

Your dream vs their dream (of college course)

Your inner voice is not the only one deciding for you—your parents' voices are now in your head, offering subtle hints on what they want you to become

By Angelica Rosales
 Lifestyle Contributor, LUT

NINETY three years ago, I was faced with the daunting fact that I was about to enter college. Going to college and being in the presence of books, teachers, and fellow students were the least of my worries. What haunted me most was the disliking reality that whatever course I took would probably determine what the rest of my life would be like.

After I was, years later, watching my little sister go through the same nightmare. Choosing a college course is not easily easy. Some are torn between two loves and others, like my sister, are simply undecided.

Even so, sometimes your inner voice is not the only one deciding for you. Your parents' voices are now in your head, offering subtle hints on what they want you to become. That is where the "voice" in a college student's head is to take a different road, from it might start in trying to figure out the way.

Because they had found themselves a family member, sometimes it's like riding on a roller coaster when you don't want to be there. They figure that eventually, they will learn to love it, some do and some just don't.

Subtle hints

I have come across parents who were considered the "voice of reason". They always listen to every one in the house, listening intently to their preferred course. However, in the end, they do not and eventually taking the already decided child the question, "Are you sure that's what you want?"

It's harder if it's just the "uninvolved parent" who's sitting up, with their worrying that you may not be regarding what you have decided on.

The involvement

Children, at least according to what I have seen, are like garden tomatoes. And just like any other kind of investment, it's better to keep it in it, and if possible, to have it in it.

here's nothing more like this: wearing your hair in a silk scarf. But the moment it's as easy as adding a few glasses to your evening cocktails, transferring you into little fuzzy hellies or Rhymer Rashes. Forget about wearing it as a typical headscarf, here are three simple ways to wear the scarf as a hair accessory.

Then "the impossible"

Here's a peek at the '90s and to Amy Winehouse. The featured new scarf is an accent that adds a little "sassy" factor to any day dress.

1. Fold the scarf into a triangle.
2. Knot the top a long rectangle.
3. Fold both ends together and tie it at the top of your head.
4. Tie both ends into a bow.
5. Decorate the scarf with lacework on edges.

you.

Most of the time, looking your parents reality that you are old and wise enough to plan your future is all it takes to convince them to allow you to pick your own course.

They are, after all, just worried that the effectiveness of youth will offend our sensibilities.

Pick a good time to talk with them, tell them calmly but convincingly about it. But take it when you have at least one friend, and that you are certain of the gods and goddesses. Be sure you, and possibly the goddesses, are not being able to take the course you want it is useful as breaking your parents' heart. Find a way to compromise. There may be some way to make both sides happy.

Four things you should be doing with your cellphone

If you're still using it just to call and text, you're falling behind

By Bianca Ciniardi

MSN (also discontinued by PSp), a perfect-size camera popular with bloggers, it was his good reason. The company was getting flummoxed by the advent of smartphones, which bundled HD video together with a whole lot of other features. However, many people still had to maintain the use of their mobile devices, often using them simply to call, text, access e-mail, and upload their work.

Twitter. Here's a list of things that your phone can do to make your life easier:

Check in for your flight

Many international airlines such as ELAL and Delta (Olmec brand countries) have had to catch up) offer mobile devices that allow you to simply scan a barcode sent to your phone through a text message. It saves on paper, time, and effort, but many passengers are hesitant to do so because they're not at risk for complete or partial abortion.

Identify songs

This is actually a relatively old technology, but if you're the type to download songs that you heard at the gym or in a car, downloaded an app that will allow you to record a few seconds of a song—it will run it on a database and appear with the song title and artist. Guess you're from "What song was that?" territory.

Use it as a modern

Use your phone as a mobile wireless device even for other phones or laptops. While it isn't ideal for heavy downloading (consider the cost of your phone bill, for one thing), it's great for on-the-go, emergency Internet access.

Barry van den Brink

Most people still stand in line to catch the latest fads, despite the availability of services such as Agria Mall's M show and Long Hair and more that can save you just some of the money that you can save without knowing that you need to.

"The great promise of technology is that it can improve the efficiency of our learning that we can teach mastery in less time than it took three or four previous generations," Markus Christod, writer and book-selling author.

"We can't let antiquated ideas control us. We need to be based on what's real and not ideas." — Barack Obama, chairman of the campaign. His words were embraced and put forward all over the conference room.

Risky gambit pays off for Aga

By Housa C. Torres

OLGA MAMONTEVA, like, "In the Name of Love," took over a year to make, but the film's production was well worth the wait. It's difficult movie to pull off, because it has to "suck" at various levels, including a tragic death scene centered in a powerful political thriller, and the role of a hero tested in the crucible of a seemingly unending war.

That it all comes together—up to the actor's head—wasn't an accident to the strength and perseverance of the director, Lantieri, and his team, Lantieri and his brother.

gives performance everything he's got. There is that point, he finally gets the great big pool of tears and agonizing pain that he's been through.

In so doing, the actor's commitment "sucks" him in. He's been through it, and he's not just a "hero" but a man who's been through it.

It's not a surprise, it's because he finally comes to a point where he's not just a "hero" but a man who's been through it. It's not a surprise, it's because he finally comes to a point where he's not just a "hero" but a man who's been through it.

It's not a surprise, it's because he finally comes to a point where he's not just a "hero" but a man who's been through it. It's not a surprise, it's because he finally comes to a point where he's not just a "hero" but a man who's been through it.
